

Safety and Security CEO Certification

Overview

Each transit agency is required to submit a Safety and Security Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Certification. The certification is a letter, approved by the transit agency's chief executive officer (CEO) that certifies and attests to safety and security (if applicable) data submitted in the previous year's reports. The CEO Certification should be submitted by February 28, 2007 certifying the safety and security (if applicable) data for calendar year 2006.

The Safety and Security Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Certification is initiated by the CEO in conjunction with the safety and security contacts. Two reports have been provided to assist in the preparation of the Safety and Security Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Certification:

1. The Non-major Incident Summary by mode / type of service
2. The Major Incident Summary by mode / type of service.

The CEO accesses the reports via the Reports tab in the NTD Internet Report System.

Suggested Format

The Safety and Security Chief Executive Officer (CEO) Certification is an annual requirement and is submitted by February 28, 2007 certifying the safety and security (if applicable) data for calendar year 2006. FTA provides a suggested format to ensure the certification contains the necessary assurances of data accuracy and uniform reporting requirements. The certification certifies and attests to the accuracy of the previous calendar year's safety and security (if applicable) submitted data.
